Rave Reviews

"Wendy's talk exceeded everyone's expectations and she made a real and immediate connection with this audience and hand them in the palm of her hand from start to finish."

~ Courtney Kirschbaum, CEO of Original Experience

"Wendy is truly one of the most dynamic and authentic speakers I know! She was a featured guest speaker at my IT'S TIME LIVE event and I'm STILL getting feedback on how much Wendy's presentation has positively impacted them and encouraged them to live their lives to the fullest! She is a GIFTED and CAPTIVATING speaker who pulls audience members in and leaves them educated, enlightened, empowered and connected. If you are looking for a speaker to help your audience maximize potential and achieve extraordinary results, then having Wendy speak at your next corporate or private event is a MUST! I promise you won't be disappointed."

~ Romeo Marquez Jr., CEO of IT'S TIME LIVE events

"Wendy's speech and presentation was completely profound."

~ Paul Buitrago, seminar attendee

About Wendy

If your audience is seeking happier home and work lives, chances are that they are experiencing disconnection, but can't quite put their finger on why they're not as happy as they could be. There is a profound cost in life and in business when we are disconnected from each other. In business, it can mean lost relationships and negative financial impact. In personal lives, it can be as extreme as self-medicating with food, alcohol or drugs – even causing suicides and workplace violence.

Wendy helps audiences uncover areas of disconnection as a critical first step in establishing healthy connections in order to achieve the happiness and peak performance that we all desire in our lives. She educates audiences on human connectivity and helps them to create real connections that support, uplift and inspire solutions for happier home and work lives.

Wendy holds a Masters in Counseling Psychology and trained as a therapist prior to working in Silicon Valley for over 20 years. Her unique education and experience make her the perfect speaker for corporate events because she really "gets" the corporate world – including why business relationships falter and how to create successful, connected relationships with coworkers and customers.
